Old Hickory Chips.

That scientist who thinks he can extract gold from the sea must have gotten that idea from the big grafts in the canal business around the country.

The czar seemed a little surprised that he could not feed his subjects on "proclamations and fudge."

Tom Lawson says designs are being had on his life by Wall street. The latter thinks all he needs is a little more rope.

The superintendent of the Texas penitentiary is trying to elevate the inmates by reading poetry to them. This is enough to drive them to drink.

It was very kind of Col. Henry Watterson, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, to spend such a long vacation in Europe and give the smart set of New York an opportunity to "cut up" again.

With congress hammering the railroads at one end and Atlanta at the other, there ought to be no difficulty in bringing them to the proper terms.

Lazy Chicago husbands are endeavoring to have married women made eligible as school teachers. Just think what a cinch this would be for Johan Hoch drawing salaries from thirty-one wives.

Florida orange and Georgia peach growers say they cannot market their crops without the private car system. We hope the watermelon will not get into such jeopardy as this.

A Jackson, (Miss.) woman takes the cake in divorces. In suing her husband for divorce she claims alimony of the money he won in a suit for the alienation of her affection. This woman almost belongs to the Chadwick class.

Senator Bacon, of Georgia, has called attention to the fact that while several senators have been indicted, none of them is a democrat. The grafters are all in the republican party, somehow or other.

Oklahoma and Indian Territory will have to send Arizona a consolation prize for having got left in the statehood bill.

John L. Sullivan says if he had a million dollars he would do big things for humanity. It would have been more accurate for him to have said that he would use it to quench their thirst.

Some of the republican congressmen from Indiana and Illinois are trying to explain that their position on the tariff has been misunderstood. When a congressman uses the word misunderstood he is usually trying to hedge both ways.

The man who kindles the fires with the catalogues from the department store, and gives his trade to home merchants, is the man who helps to put a better value on his property. The more a town grows, and the more business it does, and the greater increase in the value of property—both city and farm. The man who patronize the city department stores in preference to his home merchants, thinking that he may thereby save a few paltry pennies, is simply detracting from the wealth of his own community—X

The Passing of the Breeze.

Softly o'er valley and hill comes the breeze,
Whispering its wonders to flowers and leaves.

Perfumed its breath as it airy goes,
Gathered caressingly from lily and rose.

It kisses the cheek of the laughing maid.

The grave and the gay, the stern and the staid,

No prince can boast of more grace than he,

As he silently glides over meadow and lea.

Softly he murmurs to hearts that are sad,

Caressing and striving to make them more glad.

Soothing and calm as an angel's soft voice,

Poor, burdened hearts are made to rejoice.

Kissing the dew drops the morning reveals,

Sparkling like diamonds, on hills and on dales,

Mist fairies have shed these tears bright and fair,

In which reveals the breeze—this sprite of the air.

And thus the breeze to the burdened heart brings

Words of comfort on light, airy wings.

Driving away gloom, soothing sorrow and strife.

Bringing sweetness and flowers in every life.
